

Dr. Hoang Vinh Hung

Dr. HOANG VINH HUNG is Chief of Urban Development Management Division, Urban Development Agency, Ministry of Construction. The division is in charge of proposing national and regional urban development policies. He has previously served in Faculty of Urban and Regional Planning, Hanoi University of Architecture and is still working as visiting Associate Professor. He received Ph.D. degree in urban planning and disaster risk management from Kyoto University. He had been a visiting scholar in Institute of Urban and Regional Development, University of California, Berkeley. Dr. Hung scholarly research focused on urban development policy, climate change mitigation and adaptation. His applied research comprised work with UNDP, UNEP, DFID and the World Bank on urbanization, climate change and the integration disaster risk management and spatial planning, green buildings.