Divestment and Stranded Assets in the Low-carbon Transition

32nd Round Table on Sustainable Development

28 October 2015 OECD Headquarters

Chair: Ms. Connie Hedegaard

Room C - OECD Château

14:00 - 18.00 Plenary

(coffee break at the discretion of the Chair)

Background Document: Divestment and Stranded Assets in the Low-carbon Transition

Questions for Discussion

Round Table participants are asked to consider the following questions:

- 1. As the world looks to stepping up climate action in Paris, what practical concerns do divestment and the risk of assets stranding raise among policymakers and private sector stakeholders?
- 2. How are various stakeholders such as civil society organisation and institutional investors pursuing divestment? Could engagement be more effective than divestment?
- 3. What gets measured gets managed. What form of corporate disclosures and other indicators could help investors understand climate change-related risks?
- 4. How can public policy minimise the occurrence of assets stranding and value destruction while not compromising the low-carbon objective?
