ABOUT

My name is João Cardoso and I'm one of the delegates in the Youthwise initiative. With a degree in Economics, a Masters in Innovation and Technology and a passion for data, I am currently trying to navigate through the world of work. Like many, I'm worried about the challenges the future may bring and I hope to bring useful insights to this discussion.

“While school counselling can provide students with a framework, most can't really understand what is expected from them in a job.”
