ABOUT

I am a student of politics and international studies at the University of Warwick. Growing up in Greece, I created Teens4greece, the first online think tank for teenagers in the country. Additionally, I have been involved with various international and European organizations such as Covidunder19, Eurochild, Child Rights Connect, Act2gether while also being a youth board member for the Learning for well-being foundation and the State of Youth.

“We young people should be included in the decision making process for issues that affect us.”
