

BIOGRAPHIES

Jo Tyndall is Director, Environment Directorate at the OECD where she oversees the implementation of the Directorate's programme of work, covering a broad range of environmental issues, including: green growth; climate change; biodiversity; quality of ecosystems; eco-innovation; circular economy; and, resource productivity. She was, most recently, New Zealand High Commissioner (Ambassador) to Singapore from February 2019 to September 2022. Prior to that, Jo served as New Zealand's Climate Change Ambassador, commencing this role in June 2010.

Carmine Di Noia is the Director of the OECD's Directorate for Financial and Enterprise Affairs, where he leads the OECD's standard setting and policy work on corporate governance, anti corruption, responsible business conduct, competition, financial education and consumer protection, capital and financial markets, investment, pensions, insurance, public debt management, financial markets and blockchain. Prior to his appointment, Dr Di Noia was Commissioner for the Italian Securities and Exchange Commission (CONSOB) and Deputy Director General at ASSONIME (the Association of Italian Corporations). He holds a Doctorate Degree in Economics from the University of Pennsylvania and a Doctorate Degree in Economic Theory and Institutions from the Università di Roma Tor Vergata. He is also a full Professor of Financial Markets and Banking, at the Business School of Luiss University, in Rome.

Dr Heike Henn is the Director for Climate, Energy and Environment at the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ). Heike has worked at the BMZ in various positions since 2003, including as Coordinator of the German G8 Africa Personal Representative; Head of German Development Cooperation in Burundi and Rwanda; Head of Division of Special Initiative ONE WORLD – No Hunger; and Head of Division of 'Policy issues of cooperation with civil Society, private organizations'. She has more than 20 years' experience in the field of development policy, covering research, NGOs, and government. Heike studied political science, economics and law.

Daniel Clarke leads the Centre for Disaster Protection's work to prevent disasters devastating lives. He brings to the role a broad combination of leadership, expertise, and practical experience working with people, countries, and organisations to change how they plan and pay for disasters. Daniel is an actuary and economist. He has worked with more than 40 developing country governments to develop improved risk finance schemes in close collaboration with bilateral and multilateral development institutions and the insurance and reinsurance industry. His work has had a major influence on policy and practice at a global level with his book, Dull Disasters? How Planning Ahead Will Make A Difference. He has a first-class degree from Cambridge University in Mathematics and Computer Science and a D.Phil. in Economics from the University of Oxford. He is a Fellow of the Institute of Actuaries.

Andy King is a member of the United Kingdom's Office for Budget Responsibility Committee. From 2013 to 2018, he was Chief of Staff at the Office for Budget Responsibility. Andy joined the civil service as an economist in 1998, working in the Treasury until 2001 and at the British Embassy in Tokyo until 2005. He worked in a range of macroeconomic policy roles at the Treasury, including heading the Fiscal Policy and Macroeconomic Coordination & Strategy teams.

In 2009-10, Andy worked as a macro-fiscal advisor in the Liberian Finance Ministry. He was appointed to the IMF Fiscal Affairs Department's panel of technical experts in 2014, and has since advised several Finance Ministries in Africa and Asia on approaches to fiscal governance, reporting and forecasting.

Elsa Pilichowski is the Director for Public Governance at the OECD, spearheading the Organisation's efforts to support governments in building citizen trust and strengthening their democratic institutions through the OECD Reinforcing Democracy Initiative. She also leads the Directorate's policy work on key governance issues such as budgeting, digital and open government, public procurement and infrastructure governance, better regulation, public sector integrity, public employment and furthering access to justice and achievement of the SDGs through the empowerment of youth, women and vulnerable groups.

Prior to taking up the Directorship, she held different positions within the Organisation including in the area of Public Governance, as well as Advisor and then Counsellor in the Office of the Secretary-General. A French and Canadian national, Ms Pilichowski holds a Master degree in Public Administration from Sciences Po in Paris (1994) and a Master degree in International Economics from Johns Hopkins University in Washington D.C. (1997).

Stéphane Jacobzone is a senior adviser in the Public Management and Budgeting Division, serving the Committee of Senior Budget Officials, advising on a range of strategic projects. Stéphane has led work on evidence informed policy making, monitoring and evaluation, as well as on risk and resilience through the OECD Risk Forum established in 2012. He coordinated the organisation of the Public Governance Ministerial Meetings in Venice 2010 and Helsinki 2015, and the activities of the Public Governance Committee from 2011 until 2018. He has also led thematic work on strategic agile and innovative government and many country reviews. He previously worked on regulatory issues, as well as on health and ageing. Prior to OECD, he started at the French Treasury/INSEE on public finance, forecasting, evaluation of public and social policies. Mr. Jacobzone is a former alumni of the Ecole Polytechnique and ENSAE (French National Academy for Statistics and Economics).