

Marion Jansen (Co-ordinator, Trade and Employment Programme, ILO)

Marion Jansen is the co-ordinator of the Trade and Employment Program of the International Labor Office (ILO) and as such responsible for ILO research activities, policy advice and technical assistance projects on the theme trade and employment. Previous to joining the ILO in 2009 she was a counsellor in the Economic Research and Statistics Division of the World Trade Organization.

Marion Jansen holds a PhD in economics from the Universidad Pompeu Fabra (Barcelona, Spain) and her publications in the field of international economics cover the areas of trade adjustment, government regulation, international finance, migration, services liberalization and labour markets. She is one of the editors of the recent ILO-WTO co-publication “Making Globalization Socially Sustainable” and of the recent EC-funded ILO publication “Trade and Employment: From Myths to Facts”